About Me

I'm a passionate 23-year-old web developer with hands-on training from 1337 Coding School in Morocco. With a bachelor's degree and a strong drive for innovation, I've developed solid expertise in both front-end and back-end development. I enjoy building responsive, user-friendly websites and scalable applications, and I'm always eager to learn new technologies and improve my skills. Whether working on personal projects or collaborating in a team, I bring creativity, dedication, and a problem-solving mindset to everything I do.
